Talk: “Wyoming Oil and Gas Overview”

Speaker: John Robitaille, Vice President, Petroleum Association of Wyoming

Location: Wyoming Ball Room AB

Fee: $30

Limit: 120

John T. Robitaille began working for the Petroleum Association of Wyoming (PAW) in 2002 and he currently is Vice President there. PAW is Wyoming's largest and oldest petroleum industry trade association, dedicated to the betterment of the state's oil and gas industry and public welfare. Through the Association's committee network, PAW monitors and responds to day-to-day activities vital in oil and gas areas such as public lands, exploration, production, transportation, coal bed methane, environmental, taxation, legal and legislative. PAW is recognized by politicians, regulators and the media as the state's leading authority on petroleum industry issues.

John graduated from the University of Wyoming with a Bachelor of Science degree in 1992. His primary areas of responsibility at PAW include environmental, air, water, transportation and safety issues. John worked for the Wyoming Business Council and the Wyoming Energy Commission prior to working for the PAW. John has been married to Beth for 18 years and together they have 3 children...Thomas, David and Jack. . Please join us for lunch and hear John present a very interesting overview of the petroleum industry in Wyoming.
